

November 2017

Last month

On 11th October at the Community Room, Totnes Fire Station, Coronation Road, Totnes, TQ9 5DF we had a session aimed at beginners on beeswax. On the evening, we showed how beeswax can be salvaged and what it can be used for.

On 29th October we also had the South Devon Beekeepers Convention at the Aerial Centre, Totnes, with 100 delegates attending. The morning session involved Marin Anastasov giving a fascinating talk on 'How Bees Learn'. Marin explained how bees use information about their environment so they can be efficient nectar and pollen gatherers. This was followed by David Evans giving a talk on 'Deformed Wing Virus' and Varroa and what strategies are being developed to control this problem.

After lunch we had Simon Croson showing more of his award winning photography, this time from beekeeping in Nepal. Finally, Will Steynor gave a talk on time saving inventions for the practical beekeeper. We were all shown how to make hives from plywood and how to modify standard equipment to help save time. I'm sure a number of the delegates will now have a winter project to undertake, as a result of Will's talk.

There were also numerous trade stands, as well as the book stall, all of which were selling their goods at convention prices. Ian and Ruth Homer also had a stand illustrating the excellent work they undertook earlier this year with the International Meeting of Young Beekeepers. One of their photos showed a young Israeli and Palestinian beekeeper working together. Who would have thought that beekeeping would be able to break down such political barriers?

Our thanks go to all those involved with organising the event and making it happen. There is not enough room to mention everyone involved here, but we would particularly like to thank Lilah and Chris Killock and Jane Ducker for all their hard work. Some photos from the day are included on the following page.

Help Wanted with Branch Events

Do you want to see Totnes & Kingsbridge Beekeepers holding regular branch events where you can learn more about bees and beekeeping and/or get to know fellow beekeepers? Organising meetings with talks and/or demonstrations, or social get-togethers is not too arduous a job and one that does not involve a large time commitment unless all the work for all events falls to one person, as has happened in the past when we have appointed an Events Organiser from amongst the Branch Committee members.

For the twelve months December 2017 to November 2018 we'd like to spread the load among the general membership. Anyone volunteering to organise a one-off event will not be expected to join the Branch Committee or be responsible for any events in the future. It's a one-off commitment. Could you undertake to organise just one event between December 2017 and November 2018? It could be one of our monthly meetings in January or March or September or October for a talk or demo. Why not hold it locally to you (and make it convenient for other branch members in your area), perhaps in a local village hall or school? Or would you like to organise a social event this coming December in time for Christmas: a buffet supper with quiz, question and answer forum, or other entertainment perhaps? (We already have a volunteer to organise the Branch's annual dinner in February 2018.)

What is involved? You find the Hall, speaker/demonstrator, helpers (if necessary) and organise the refreshments, and decide whether to charge. You open up and close down and handle the money. We have a budget for hall hire, speaker fees, etc, and will help you finalise your ideas. You make sure the branch newsletter contains details. If for some reason you later find that you need help or someone to take over, rest assured a Branch Committee member will have the responsibility to support you and, if needed, step in. Perhaps you would like to liaise with another Branch for a joint meeting, or organise a visit to a member's apiary (it could be your own) in the summer months?

It would be great to have someone take charge of organising the Branch Apiary's Opening Day in late April, or our Totnes Show stand in late July? We also have bigger events like the Branch Honey Show or the South Devon Beekeepers' Convention in Autumn 2018. (These last two do require a considerable time commitment). You don't have to be an experienced beekeeper to do any of the tasks above. Organising events is a great way of getting to know new people. All that is required are some basic communication skills and a lot of enthusiasm!
